3. Situational (or Scenario) Questions

Scenario questions use a problem solving approach to determine your analytical skills and critical thinking abilities.

These are "What if" type questions and are presented in the form of case examples or problem situations.

You will be asked to imagine yourself experiencing a situation and will then be evaluated on how you would handle that situation.

(e.g. "There may be times when you are faced with a difficult question or situation, and no one is around for you to ask for help. Please tell us, how you would handle that situation, what steps would you take?")
